AMERICAN SOCIETY OF INTERIOR
DESIGNERS

EXPAND YOUR KNOWLEDGE OF INTERIOR DESIGN.

As the world's largest and most historic professional association of interior designers, ASID is a valuable resource for education, training, business support and advocacy to more than 30,000 members. ASID is committed to leading research initiatives in the industry and provides networking opportunities and support on national and local levels through 300+ student chapters and 48 professional chapters in North America.

The profession of interior design is about connections and relationships. ASID has enhanced my ability to connect students to scholarships, awards, internships, practitioners, community service, trends, and leadership opportunities. ASID improves student perceptions of my value as they complete a degree and compete for a position in the job market. That is a valuable career commodity for me.

A professional affiliation is essential for educators in professional programs. My association with ASID has provided so many opportunities over the years that have benefitted both my students and me. Our connections provide sites for field trip visits; our annual design excellence awards provide opportunities for our students to have their work recognized in a professional venue; our professional chapter provides scholarship assistance to our students; the list goes on and on. Essentially, I tell my students that every professional advantage I have experienced over the course of my 30-year professional career as an interior designer and educator can be credited to my affiliation with ASID.

PROFESSOR, UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN-STEVENS POINT

One of the many benefits ASID has provided me as an educator is the opportunity to affect the professional lives of students nationwide. The speaking, publishing and digital presentations we give reach beyond our classrooms to the student members in other chapters, cities and states. This creates unity, and expands the standing of the profession. In my teaching, I refer often to the ASID Code of Ethics as the guideline for many questions that come up about professional practice and business strategies. The principle-based standards the Code provides answer many a "what should I do when...?" question.
